

MUTILATION-MURDERER MAY BE LAKE SUICIDE

RAPIST-KILLER MUST DIE, HIS JURY DECIDES

Convicted Peoria Machinist of Murder of Mildred Hallmark

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—"I never had a chance," was Gerald Thompson's complaint today as he rested in his cell at the county jail sentenced to the electric chair for slaying Mildred Hallmark, 19, in Springfield cemetery June 17.

Thompson, who maintained his composure throughout the final session of the trial last night, had broken today, jailers said. In contrast to his usual hearty morning meal, breakfast was only a doughnut and coffee.

"What could you expect?" was the 26-year-old toolmaker's only comment, jailers said, after he was returned from court where the jury's verdict, finding him guilty and assessing the death penalty, was returned.

Expected Only Few Years

Thompson, they said, had maintained constantly that "a few years in the pen" would be his punishment for the slaying of the girl, whose ravished, nearly nude body, his confession said, he tossed into a ditch near the spot where she died in a vain attempt to resist his assault.

Peoria citizens, relaxed from the tension in which the trial held the city and generally agreed the verdict was just.

Newspapermen and others who sought to visit Gerald at the jail were denied admission by Sheriff Marcus Olson.

Attorney Ben Thurman, who defended Thompson, said he would appeal if denied a new trial when Judge Joseph Daily ruled on this motion August 12.

In the absence of Thurman when the verdict was returned last night, Judge Daily entered the motion on behalf of the defendant.

Edwin V. Champion, state's attorney, could not be located today but last night, after the jury came in, he said, "the verdict speaks for itself."

In Only Seven Weeks

Only seven weeks after the girl's battered and nude body was found in a cemetery ditch, Thompson was under sentence of death ordered by a circuit court jury which deliberated less than four hours last night. Only two ballots were reported taken.

Indifferent or evasive during a 10 day trial during which his counsel fought to put into the record the defendant's own account of scores of attempts to despoil Peoria women, Thompson broke after the court pronounced sentence. Tears appeared in the toolmaker's eyes as he waited in Judge Daily's chambers for his return to jail.

Thompson, described by his counsel and a few witnesses as a "sex crazy" youth, appeared bewildered as he sat awaiting the verdict.

He remained dry eyed and unshaken during the brief polling of the jury, reading of the verdict and court's motion.

Insanity Only Defense

Prominent men and women of the city surrounded State's Attorney Champion to congratulate him on the outcome of the trial.

Thurman had offered as his only defense a claim that Thompson was insane in matters of sex and sought to show that uncontrollable desires made him irresponsible for his attack on the pretty cafeteria hostess.

In support of his claim he made an unsuccessful attempt to introduce Thompson's diary, and admitted the story of the attack on Miss Hallmark as contained in the youth's 2,500 word confession.

Champion fought back with the claim that Thompson was "legally sane."

Thompson's confession told of picking up Miss Hallmark as she waited for a street car, taking her to a lonely section, beating her into unconsciousness as she resisted his advances, tearing off her clothes, attacking her, and then throwing her body into a cemetery ditch.

Taken into custody a few days later, Thompson confessed under a lie detector test, then was hidden in various cities in fear of an aroused citizenry.

SUSPECTED COUNTERFEITER

Chicago—Three men were seized in suburban Berwyn after Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, chief of the secret service here, expressed the belief they had some of the bogus $5 bills hidden by counterfeiters before a counterfeiting ring was broken up at Peoria three years ago.

FOUR STUDENTS ASKED TO STAY AWAY BY PREXY

University of Michigan President Sends Them Requests

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Four University of Michigan students, members of the National Students' League, carried letters from the president of the university today, asking them not to re-enter for their junior year.

The students, William Fisch, Newark, N. J.; Leon Owsley, Elizabeth, N. J.; Joseph Feldman, New York, and Daniel Cohen, Trenton, N. J., disclosed the letters requesting their departure last night, and announced that they would seek reinstatement.

The letters from the president, Alexander Grant Ruthven, asked that they not return to school because "it has been proved to be impossible to persuade you to refrain from interfering with the work of the university and the work of other students."

Reached at his summer residence later, Ruthven said his action had nothing to do with the fact that the four students were members of the league which sponsored a peace day demonstration on the campus last spring.

Seven or More Men Perished in Wreck of Freight in Texas

Temple, Tex., Aug. 1.—(AP)—At least seven men were believed today to have perished when a Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train was derailed and caught fire last night near Bruceville, Tex.

Eight men, six of them negroes, were injured when 30 of the 80 cars in the train left the track and piled up along the right-of-way. Oil from several tank cars in the wrecked section fed the flames and rescue workers said they probably would not be able to start clearing away the wreckage until late today.

Sheriff W. B. Mobley of Waco, who arrived at the scene soon after the wreck, said survivors told him they were positive seven persons were trapped in the burning cars. Others said they had seen several men riding on a carload of rock and they believed some of them were killed.

Investigators said the wreck apparently was caused by a "hot box."

Heat Causes Trouble for Many Motorists

Heat and humidity are causing all kinds of automobile trouble. The last few days the principal garages in town have been well occupied with various motor cars which required mechanical services. Ignition disturbances are most common. The heated pavements are the cause of endless tire trouble. Radiators soon are full of boiling water on considerable drives. Brakes squeak and new greasing generally is required. Many experienced drivers, such as commercial travelers, watch their radiators and stop at times, drain them and put in fresh cold water.

CITY PLANT ENJOINED

Danville, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Without passing on constitutional questions, Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley today enjoined the city of Centralia from building a city light plant as a public works project. Judge Lindley held the contract with the public works administration failed to comply with state laws, finding the property description insufficient and finding that competitive bidding was limited.

BROKEN NECK FATAL

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Claude Staggs, Jr., 13, of Farmington, died today as a result of a broken neck suffered in a fall from a waterwheel at Lake Storey bathing beach yesterday.

"G-Men" Protection for Smaller Banks Provided in New Federal Banking Law Now in Conference

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The arm of the Justice Department agent is expected to reach out soon to protect the small town bank, long victimized by America's 5,000 known bank robbers.

The "G-Men," who collared nearly 140 robbers of national banks last year, are called upon to shield another $18,000,000,000 under a provision tucked away in the new banking bill, now in conference between Senate and House.

The bill extends to all banks insured by the federal deposit insurance corporation the "G-Man" protection given last year to national banks and federal reserve member banks.

"Country bankers" have feared, since the federal agents were put on the job last year, that the bank robber, frightened away from "big game," would redouble his attack on the small town bank.

Under the new law, the agents would be given orders to track down robbers who steal any of the $41,000,000,000 deposits in 14,280 banks, national and state.

TWO CONFESSED KILLERS PLEAD INNOCENT TODAY

Dunkel and Smith Women Arraigned on Murder Charge in Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Smith, 41, and Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, 43, pleaded innocent when arraigned today for the "swamp" murder of Ervin Lang, although the police have announced confessions from both of them.

The pleas were entered for the two at Judge Cornelius Harrington's order. Neither Mrs. Smith nor Mrs. Dunkel, the latter Lang's mother-in-law, was represented by counsel.

The weird case was set for trial Monday morning, Lang's body, the legs dismembered at the hips, was found in a Hammond, Ind., swamp July 9.

To the clerk's question "guilty or not guilty?" Mrs. Dunkel only sobbed. Mrs. Smith started to speak, but was halted by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, who said:

Neither Had Lawyer

"Neither of these women has a lawyer, and I suggest pleas of not guilty be entered for them."

In answer to the clerk's questions, Mrs. Smith said she was 46, born in Germany, and had no money. Mrs. Dunkel said tearfully that she was 42, born in Illinois, of German-Irish extraction, and as to money, said:

"I don't have very much—about $400."

The investigators said she referred to money remaining from $500 left to Lang by his late wife Maile, Mrs. Dunkel's daughter. Police had quoted her as confessing she paid $100 of this money to Mrs. Smith as down payment on a $500 fee for committing the murder.

To Appoint Defender

Lang was murdered, according to the confessions attributed to the two women, because his plan of re-marrying enraged his mother-in-law.

"I'll appoint a public defender for you," Judge Harrington told Mrs. Smith, "but you, Mrs. Dunkel, will have to use your $400 to employ counsel."

Then the two were taken to cells in the county jail. Previously they had been held in a suburban hotel.

BILL TO ISSUE CHINESE COINS PROBABLY DEAD

House Committee Says It Gives Treasury Too Much Power

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The administration's bill for the coinage of new half-cent and mill pieces was tabled by the house committee today on the grounds it would carry too much authority to the treasury.

The midget money had been proposed by Secretary Morgenthau to facilitate payment of state sales taxes. President Roosevelt himself had suggested designs for the coins.

Chairman Somers (D., N. Y.) of the house committee said a special sub-committee has been appointed to study the matter further and "if the treasury can show a real need for a particular coin, we shall give the matter more consideration."

Somers and his committee objected to the bill because it did not say specifically what coins the treasury could issue, stating simply that new coins of any value between one mill and one cent could be minted.

Asked by newsmen if the committee's decision probably meant "we won't have any Chinese coins this session," Somers laughed and nodded.

FAIL KILLED PASTOR

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Rev. Hugo Stamer, 87, who retired 16 years ago as pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, a congregation he organized 37 years previously, died last night of injuries suffered in a fall from his bed.

THURSDAY, AUG. 1, 1935

Principals in Chicago Mutilation-Murder

MANVILLE ZENGE.

Mandeville Zenge of Canton, Mo., left, is today being sought in four states for the murder, through an emasculation operation, of Dr. Walter J. Bauer of the Kirksville, Mo., College of Osteopathy, right. The operation was performed on the outskirts of Chicago early Wednesday morning after Zenge had allegedly kidnapped his victim and forced him to drive to Chicago from Ann Arbor, Mich. A note found in a taxi indicates that Zenge, a former suitor of Mrs. Bauer, center, may have suicided in Lake Michigan, but police will not give up the search for him until he or his body is found.

Ashes of Mrs. Minnie Swingley Lord Buried in Palmyra Cemetery

Mrs. Minnie Swingley Lord, wife of Dr. John Prentiss Lord, of Omaha, Neb., who had been ill since last October, passed away May 24, the body being cremated there in the presence of Dr. Lord, his daughter, Mrs. Louise Vaughan of Chicago; his granddaughter, Mary Frances, and Miss E. Lord, was buried in the Lord family lot in the Palmyra cemetery Tuesday evening, July 30, at sunset.

Mrs. Lord was born near Creston, Ill., in 1862, and was the daughter of the late Upton Swingley, who in his later years lived in Rockford. She was united in marriage to Dr. Lord at Creston in 1886 and Omaha has been their home since. The Swingleys were direct descendants of Zwingli, the Swiss reformer. They were pioneers in Ogle county.

Captain Swingley, the grandfather, with his family came from Maryland in 1836. A daughter, Mrs. Louise Lord Vaughan of Chicago, a son Upton Prentiss Lord of Brattleboro, Vt., and six grandchildren survive. Also surviving are a brother, Howard Swingley, and a sister Mrs. Elliott Bartlett, living at Rockford.

Wm. Calhoun Martin Called to Final Rest

William Calhoun Martin, life long resident of Dixon and vicinity, passed away yesterday afternoon at the family home west of Dixon in Swissville. He was born in Dixon September 7, 1881, and had lived here his entire life time. For the past 28 years he had been in the employ of the Borden company as engineer. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Gail Ogan. Funeral services will be conducted from the Immanuel Lutheran church Friday afternoon at 2:30, the pastor Rev. A. G. Suchting officiating and with interment in Oakwood.

WHISPER DRIVE AGAINST F. D. R. WAS SUGGESTED

Advertising Man for Campaign Like One Against Hoover

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—E. P. Cramer, New Jersey advertising man, told the senate lobby committee today that he had suggested months ago that utilities companies start a whispering campaign that President Roosevelt was insane.

Meanwhile, the house rules committee received testimony from Bernard B. Robinson, Chicago utilities official, that he had paid Robert Smith, Washington lawyer, $100 to teach him his way around Washington—how to use the congressional directory and the like.

Robinson said he came to Washington, representing the Associated Gas & Electric Company, to oppose the utilities bill.

Chairman Black of the senate committee recalled what he termed a recent "whispering campaign" that Roosevelt was in bad health. It was quickly drowned by widespread press denials from Washington.

Roosevelt himself took cognizance of the campaign.

"Didn't you suggest in March that a whispering campaign be started to convince the nation that the president was insane?" Black asked.

Memory Revived

"I don't recall," Cramer, a middle aged man with closely cropped hair, replied.

"Didn't you suggest that a whispering campaign be started?"

"I suggested that as one of the matters that might be considered," Cramer replied in a low voice.

Cramer previously had told of suggesting to the Electric Bond & Share Company a detailed program in an effort to defeat the New Deal. He said the whispering campaign was one of his recommendations but the program had not been carried out.

He was a surprise witness. He was questioned about a letter he wrote to C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of Electric Bond & Share, suggesting the plan for beating the New Deal.

Letter In Record

When Black first asked him about recommending a whispering campaign he flatly denied it. He finally conceded it, however, when Black placed in the record a letter Cramer had written to Groesbeck March 28, saying in part:

"I suggested, that the officers and directors of the company take the leadership in organizing or at least formulating a plan for organizing the security holders of America for the purpose of destroying the New Deal and giving America a sane and honest program it its place."

Among the subjects he suggested the organization take up was:

"A 'whispering campaign' designed to create popular suspicion that the New Deal and especially one new dealer-in-chief are either incompetent or insane, discrediting them in the same way that Michelson, Democratic publicity director for 1932, so successfully discredited Hoover."

Questioned sharply by Black, Cramer agreed there was "no bases" for believing the president was insane, and that he had never seen him.

RELIEF FUNDS FOR ONLY HALF MONTH ISSUED

Hopkins Expects Part of Works Program Under Way Soon

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Quickening of the swing from doles to work relief job was predicted by officials today as Harry L. Hopkins allotted direct relief funds to 13 states for only the first half of August.

Aides in Hopkins' work progress administration said they believed their part of the $4,000,000,000 works program would be well under way by August 15.

Several states were granted funds only for special programs, such as transient camps, pending determination of when work relief will begin.

Hopkins' assistants said many states already had taken over some of the 4,000,000 unemployed now on relief. The government wants to turn them all over eventually to states and communities.

Allotments for both general relief and special programs during the entire month except where otherwise noted: Illinois, $4,800,500, including $4,500,000 for general relief during the first half; Indiana, $820,500, including $700,000 for general relief during the first half; Iowa, $554,400; Missouri, $206,445 for special programs only; Wisconsin, $2,672,600.

Dixon Police Kept Busy During July

The month of July was the most active in recent years in the Dixon police department. Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber in surveying the records of the department today announced a total of 60 arrests having been made for the month. A list compiled from the police record book of the activities of the department for the month of July lists the following arrests:

Assault and battery, 1; bastardy, 1; disorderly conduct, 2; disturbing the peace, 1; driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition, 1; drunkenness, 9; escaped from Dixon state hospital, 9; held for investigation, 2; issuing check with intent to defraud, 1; larceny, 4; apprehension of runaway girl, 1; traffic ordinance violators, 23; vagrancy, 5; total 60.

United States Navy Blimp Fired Upon as It Searched for Victim of Drowning Off Jersey's Shore

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Navy officials began an investigation today to learn the source of mysterious volleys of rifle fire aimed at the navy blimp ZMC-2. Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, chief of the Lakehurst naval air base, disclosed yesterday that unseen snipers fired on the ship Tuesday as it cruised over the ocean at Point Pleasant in search of a drowning victim's body.

Rosendahl stated it was the third such attack since the ship was built in 1928.

The blimp, with Lieutenant Ben May in command and two other officers and two enlisted men aboard, was only a few hundred yards off shore when May heard the "ping" of bullets against its metal shell. May said there were too many small boats in the water below to determine the origin of the shots.

NOTE FOUND IN TAXI-CAB GIVES CLUES

Former Sweetheart of Victim's Wife is Probably Slayer

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A suicide note signed "Mandeville" was found today in the search for Mandeville Zenge, 26, wanted for questioning in the mutilation-murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

On a coat containing the note were spots which Police Captain John Stege said were "unmistakably blood stains," with more on a handkerchief found in the breast pocket.

The note was turned over to police in the midst of a four-state search for Zenge, a disappointed suitor for the hand of Bauer's pretty wife, Louise, a Kirksville, Mo., nurse.

John Giannini, cab driver, found it, he reported, in clothing left behind by a passenger he drove to Navy Pier, on Chicago's near north side, about 10:45 o'clock last night.

While the note was addressed to Zenge's father, and said, "I'm going to end it all," Stege dubbed it "a ruse," to throw police off the track.

No Reference to Attack

The note contained no reference to the brutal attack on Bauer. The 38-year-old instructor, on the staff of the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery, was found early yesterday dying from an expertly performed emasculation operation. He told of being abducted from Ann Arbor, Mich., by a fellow hotel lodger he knew as "E. L. Jones of Chicago."

The note told Zenge's bitter disappointment when Bauer's wife, the former Louise Schaeffer, chose the doctor after a seven-year engagement to Zenge.

Mrs. Bauer identified the hat and coat as Zenge's, and after reading the note, wilted into the arms of her father, W. J. Schaeffer, sobbing.

"Poor thing, it looks like he's dead, too."

Pencilled in a red notebook, the note was dated July 31, and addressed to "Dear Dad." It said:

"I left home because I was so miserably unhappy over losing Louise that I couldn't get along with anyone and was making everyone unhappy at home."

Couldn't Forget

"Thought maybe if I could get up here I could forget. But I can't and I'm going to end it all. Don't let Louise know about this, as I love her."

"I don't want to make her unhappy. I suppose she is better off married to that doctor than she would have been with me. She told me before I came up here she was happy and I am glad for her."

"Dad, I guess I have something lacking in me. It seems like I have failed in everything I ever tried to do. However, this is one thing in which I am going to succeed."

"Tell mother, June, Lottie and Aunt Nellie goodbye for me. Also Louise. Oh, I love that girl. There was never and never will be a girl like her."

$5,000 Insurance Policy

"Dad, you and mother have been good to me. So have June and Lottie. Dad, I have a $5,000 insurance policy in the top left hand drawer of your desk."

"With it you can finish sending June to law school."

"I wish you and mother would enjoy yourselves with the rest of it. Lottie told me several times lately that I was crazy but I am not. I know what I am doing. I'm sorry I can't pay you the money I borrowed from you but you have the car which I hope you will enjoy."

"However, I believe you could use the money better. Tell Lloyd and Ellen goodbye for me."

"I am going to take a cab to the lake and jump in. Will leave this in my coat in the cab and the police or someone will send it to you. Bye Dad."

"Your son,
"Mandeville."

Identified By Driver

Giannini, shown a photograph of Zenge's supplied by Bauer's widow, said "that's the man."

At Canton, Mo., news of the suicide note prostrated Zenge's mother.

Stege said he had no doubt that the note was authentic. He said: "I believe Zenge wrote this note because he describes his home. However, we won't consider him drowned until the body is found."

MANY CHINCH BUGS

The long and protracted wet spell early this summer failed to exterminate the chinch bugs in many parts of the county and at the present time many farmers are anxious as to the future of their corn crops. In various parts of the county reports are to the effect that the chinch bug pest exceeds that of last year. Earlier in the summer it was reported that the long wet spell had served to curb the pest and it was expected that there would be only slight damage from the bugs this summer.

PRACTICAL SHOOTING

A Chicagoan and his wife who passed through Dixon last evening on their way west on a vacation outing, were halted on West Everett street about 7 o'clock by Sheriff Miller and deputies. The tourist was reported to have fired a revolver several times between Franklin Grove and Dixon, practicing marksmanship without regard to the safety of others on the Lincoln

This turn of events was reported just after an inquest into Bauer's death had been continued until Aug. 25 for further investigation, after the doctor's pretty 23-year-old widow, Louise, had failed to provide a clue.

Was Childhood Sweetheart

Mrs. Bauer, called as the first witness told in "yes" and "no" answers how she married Dr. Bauer after a 7-year-old engagement to Zenge, a childhood sweetheart.

The widow was taken to the state's attorney's office after the inquest to amplify her testimony in a formal statement.

Her married life, she testified, lasted three hours. She married Dr. Bauer in Kirksville on July 14—“nineteen days ago,” she testified—where he taught chemistry at the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery. She is night superintendent of nurses at Laughlin hospital, connected with the college.

Most of the questions directed by Coroner J. Frank Walsh concerned Zenge.

Hasn't Heard From Him

She gave the slow reply “I don't know” to the coroner's question: “Do you think Zenge would do such a thing?”

“Did Zenge try to contact you after your husband was murdered?” asked Walsh.

“No,” said the nurse.

“Did you ever give Zenge reason to believe you loved him?”

“Yes, I did.”

Excused from the stand, she was recalled for more questioning on the broken romance.

“Why did you break off so suddenly with Zenge?” asked the coroner.

“I thought more of the doctor,” she replied.

“Do you have any knowledge where Zenge might be now?”

“No.”

Picture Identified

The search for Zenge was intensified after Lieut. Van Loomis of the Michigan state police telephoned the authorities here that hotel employees in Ann Arbor had pointed out a strong resemblance between a picture of Zenge and the missing hotel guest who had registered as “Jones.” He said the employees were Charles Reamue, manager and Norman Jedley, clerk.

“They did not have any trouble,” he said, “determining that it looked like the man who had stayed at the hotel and disappeared the day Bauer left.”

C. M. Parker of the Missouri highway police said that Zenge had quit his job on a federal looks construction job at Canton, July 26, without collecting wages due him and that he had not been seen since.

Suspect's Description

“Jones” was described as six feet tall, weighing 165 to 170 pounds with dark brown hair, well tanned complexion. He was well dressed in a gray suit and gray felt hat when last seen in Ann Arbor. Hotel employees were quoted as saying there was nothing to indicate that Dr. Bauer and Jones were acquainted.

Mrs. Bauer, 23, arrived here grief-stricken last night, accompanied by several Kirksville, Mo., police. She told the police here that early last week she saw Zenge and that he seemed surprised when she told him she was married.

“He asked me if I were happy,” she said, “and when I told him I was he just wished me luck and drove off in his car.”

The victim was driven to a south side filling station in Chicago early yesterday after the operation was performed. Harry and Harold Anderson, attendants, who drove Dr. Bauer to a hospital told the police a man jumped from the car as it reached the station and fled. They said they might be able to identify him from photographs which they were to view today. Dr. Bauer died several hours later from loss of blood.

CLOSE RELIEF SHELTERS

Chicago—Percy Wilson submitted Relief Commission announced it would close two relief shelters here and transfer about 600 transients to camps at Cairo, Springfield, Batavia, Danville and Rockford for work on the public waterway projects.

BECAME OBNOXIOUS

A tramp who found no fault with the humidity and heat, arrived in Dixon this morning and proceeded to add to his own discomfort as well as to prove an annoyance to others. Bayrum was his choice of beverage and starting in Dementown, he proceeded to the loop to replenish his supply of thirst quencher. Patrolman John Bohnstiel who had received some complaint as to the manner that the visitor was treating citizens and business men, found the tramp making a dash for a dark stairway with a new bottle of bayrum. The visitor was taken to the police station where the bottle of thirst quencher was taken from him despite his arguments that he was using it to cure a long standing case of dandruff, and locked up.

Mrs. Wm. Daub Is Honored at Shower

Misses Velma Krug and Winnie Knapp, Ashton, entertained at the Knapp home yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. William Daub, a recent bride. The afternoon was spent in playing ping pong and croquet on the Knapp lawn.

At the close of the games, a short program was enjoyed after which little Miriam O'May, daintily dressed as Cupid, carrying a bow and arrow, came to Mrs. Daub and led her to an attractive pile of gifts, brought by Laura's many friends.

The guests were seated at attractive tables about the lawn, daintily decorated with garden flowers, and tempting refreshments were served by the hostesses. The bride's table was especially pretty with a miniature bride and groom as a centerpiece. It was the same used at the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Eva Billmire, Mrs. Robert E. Peterson, Mrs. A. E. Daub, Mrs. Carl Greve, Miss Bettie Talcott and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Rochelle; Miss Grace Butler of Dixon; the girls of the class of 1935 of which Mrs. Daub was a member, and the members of the girls' baseball team.

Circus Dance Was A Great Success

Last evening the annual Circus dance at the Dixon Country Club was voted a great success by all attending, the majority of the guests being from the younger crowd. There was a good music for dancing and the pink lemonade was exhausted in a short time, also the peanuts, for who ever heard of a circus without peanuts? The bowling game and the corn game, were sources of much amusement for many.

The Misses Jean Bovey, Lorraine Giannoni, Mary Davies, Eleanor Sterling and Georgiana Shaw gave a delightful sketch accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Chas. Bishop, their dancing and singing eliciting much applause. They were heartily applauded and given an encore.

Visit of Worthy Grand Matron, O.E.S., Monday Evening

One of the most interesting events of the year of the Dorothy Chapter, O. E. S. is the annual visit of the Worthy Grand Matron. This year the visit is to be take place on Monday evening, August 5. This year the Worthy Grand Matron is Mrs. Amy H. Berry, of Chicago, who, together with a number of her fellow officers from the Grand Chapter, including a number of the past Worthy Grand Matrons and Patrons and a very large number of visitors from all of the Chapters in northern Illinois, will come to Dixon, not only to meet the Worthy Grand Matron and her fellow officers, but to enjoy the justly famous hospitality of Dorothy Chapter.

Worthy Matron Mildred Beier, with her officers, has been making preparations for this event for a number of months. They have visited other Chapters when they were entertaining the Worthy Grand Matron and so have invited the members of these various Chapters to visit Dixon. The officers of Dixon Chapter have had several rehearsals in order to make their work absolutely perfect for the visit of the Worthy Grand Matron and not only includes her reception but also an initiation of new candidates.

The Worthy Grand Matron will be met and escorted to the beautiful Chapter room, which will be decorated appropriately and adequately provided with electric fans, and after all of the ceremonies are completed the guests and members will adjourn to the beautiful dining room where a committee will have arranged the tables in a new and most attractive manner. The decorations will be in green, orchid and white. The refreshment menu has been carefully arranged and will prove to be another delightful surprise to all who attend.

These visits of the Worthy Grand Matron usually bring out a very large attendance and plans are being made to care for the largest summer meeting ever held in Dorothy Chapter. A beautiful present has been selected by the committee for presentation to the Worthy Grand Matron, and this together with the presents for others, constitute a very interesting part of this beautiful ceremony.

U. S. Ambassador Watching Proceedings Seventh Communistic Congress

Moscow, Aug. 1—(AP)—An appeal to workers to rise in arms against governments that wage "imperialistic" war was published by Pravda, Communist party organ, on behalf of the Seventh Communist International today as speakers hurled further accusations against Germany, Japan and Italy.

"The Comintern (International) calls on all toilers and friends of peace to form a united peoples front to be ready to change imperialistic war if it starts into civil war," the official party organ asserted.

The newspaper asserted that Fascist cannon are "already charged and the first shots of a new war may be heard any moment." The United States embassy, meanwhile, denied reports that a protest has been made to the Soviet government over developments at the Communist congress where an American delegate called for the Comintern's support in the event that Pacific coast longshoremen again go on strike.

Ambassador William C. Bullitt was watching the congress carefully, it was said, but has made no move in the nature of a protest.

FAVORS AT ALL COSTS
 The evils that party politics can cause could hardly be made more plain than by the recent dismissal of Dr.
 Amy N. Stannard from the Federal Parole Board.
 Miss Stannard is a psychiatrist. She has never been in politics; she was put on the parole board in 1930 as an expert, and her work has been eminently satisfactory.
 She represents the kind of office holder the government ought to be glad to get and eager to keep.
 But a political row developed in the Virgin Islands.
 Ex-Gov. Paul M. Pearson and Federal Judge T. Webber
 Wilson got into a scrap down there. Both had important friends at the capital. The row was settled by giving each one a different job—and the job Judge Wilson got was on the Federal Parole Board. So Dr. Stannard had to step down to make room for him.
 Here we have an expert being dismissed from an important, supposedly non-political board to make room for a man whose politician-friends insist that he be taken care of. It is a sample of partisan politics at its worst.

A CHANCE TO LEARN
 Commander Charles E. Rosendahl asks the navy to permit the decommissioned dirigible Los Angeles to be used for an extensive series of test flights while the government is determining its future policy with regard to lighter-than-air craft.
 Commander Rosendahl declares that the Los Angeles was removed from service as an economy measure and not because it had ceased to be airworthy. It is his idea that the big ship would make an excellent "flying laboratory" in which the navy might find out many things that would enable it to decide wisely about the future of dis-ableds.
 There seems to be a good deal of sense in his proposal. There is still reason to suspect that our airship tragedies might have been prevented if we had known as much about building and flying the big ships as the Germans do. Properly used, the Los Angeles might help us to gain that knowledge.

HIGH up in the Pyrenees moun-

 Unusual, too, is the postal sys-

WORK RELIEF HELD UP BY TOO MANY BOSSES
 Somewhere back in January, Congress put through a $4,800,000,000 bill for work-relief.
 This was to be the final, triumphant, mopping-up drive of the great campaign against unemployment. It was to take 3,500,000 men off the dole and restore them to honest jobs. It was to "prime the pump" once more with such expenditures for capital as would finally set our whole productive machine in motion again.
 That was just about seven months ago. Today, according to the most recent checkup, slightly less than 25,000 people have gone to work under this bill. The great public works that were to result are hardly past the blue-print stage. The whole campaign has bogged down in a manner utterly dismaying to anyone who hopes to see the government work its way out of the expensive business of direct relief.
 One trouble—perhaps the chief one—seems to be that there are too many bosses.
 Harry Hopkins is Federal Relief Administrator. Secretary Ickes is Public Works Administrator. Frank C.
 Walker is a sort of middle man, head of the Division of Applications and Information.
 It is up to Mr. Hopkins to see to it that as many men as possible are given work—any kind and every kind of work, so long as it is work.
 It is Mr. Ickes' job to see to it that the jobs undertaken are as useful, as substantial and as permanent as possible.
 It is Mr. Walker's job to harmonize the inevitable conflicts between these viewpoints, and that is something that takes a bit of doing; for the more successful Mr.
 Hopkins is the less successful Mr. Ickes will have to be and vice versa.
 As a result, the whole program seems to be in a state of considerable confusion. At one moment it looks as if
 Mr. Ickes' program for substantial and enduring public works will carry the day; a little later it appears that Mr. Hopkins will have his way and will put men at work raking leaves and rolling tennis courts; now and then it almost looks as if nothing would be done.
 What seems to be needed is a firm and definite decision from the White House. In some ways this work relief program is the most important single undertaking of the whole administration. Indecision and the conflict of varying plans should not be allowed to cripple it any longer.

THE TINYMITES
 Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"Well," said the sea man, "we're all set. The diver will be thrilled.
 I'll bet, when he pulls up this chest and finds that it is full of gold."
 "He can retire this very day,
 and loaf the coming years away.
 I'm giving him enough to last him till he's very old."
 Then Scouty said, "How did that chest down in the ocean come to rest? Perhaps 'twas from a pirate ship that sailed the deep blue sea."
 "You're right, and as you might expect, the old-time pirate ship was wrecked," replied the sea man.
 "Thus the big chest came to me."
 "I could not use the gold down here, and now I'm simply filled with cheer to send it up to someone whom 'twill do a lot of good."
 "I only wish that I could go and help the diver spend that dough."
 "Why don't you?" little Goldy snapped. "I really think you should."
 "What? Leave the bottom of the sea? Oh, no! This is the place for me," the man replied. And then he said, "I'm going to jerk the rope."
 "The man will pull with all his might, and take the chest right out of sight. He'll shortly have it safely on his little boat, I hope."

Let's leave the Tinymites behind and travel up until we find the diver. Ah, he's with us, now. He's had the signal, too.
 Up comes the chest. It weighs a ton, but pulling it seems lots of fun. Gee! When he finds all of the gold, what will the diver do?
 At last the chest is on the boat.
 A lump forms in the diver's throat.
 He pries the chest lid open and a smile spreads 'cross his face.
 "Ah, lots and lots of gold," says
 he. "I am as happy as can be.
 Fate was real kind when it brought me to such a lucky place."
 (The Tinies get set to leave the sea in the next story.)

ADIRABLE DEWEY" TRAINS LEGAL GUNS ON NEW YORK CITY'S PUBLIC ENEMIES

Young Lawyer Leads Gotham's Greatest War On Organized Crime

By PAUL HARRISON
A Staff Correspondent
New York—With less fanfare than usually has attended the openings of dozens of reformation houses, the curtain rises now on the drama of New York City's most extensive war against organized crime.

Outwardly, the theater of action has been unusually calm. No sensational exposures of racketeering activities have been made recently. No major graft scandals have broken over the heads of city officials, politicians, police, or labor chiefs. The tommy-guns of gangsters have not been unusually noisy in their chattering overture of death.

But this is precisely the reason why coordinated forces of city, state and Federal agencies have taken the initiative in a coldly calculated major offensive against all public enemies.

New York City still is racket-ridden. More industries and labor unions than ever before have come under the domination of racketeers. Few industries and labor unions actively resist this domination, accepting as an inevitable nuisance the overloads who demand and collect tribute. The public does not realize the extent of the evil because rackets have received so much attention from public prosecuting agencies.

And so, say the men directing this investigation, the calm that has overlaid the situation is a particularly sinister calm.

Started Through Vice Inquiry—

The upheaval began a good many months ago as an investigation of organized vice and the ball bond racket. A grand jury, hearing shocking testimony of extortion cases, glimpsed some of the almost limitless ramifications of modern racketeering and complained to Governor Herbert Lehman about the failure of District Attorney William C. Dodge to cooperate with it in a fuller probe.

Dodge repeatedly has been under fire for laxity in prosecuting political scandals and racket charges. The governor requested him to appoint a special prosecutor from a list of approved names. Instead, Dodge attempted to name a man of his own choice. Finally, upon the recommendations of state and city bar associations, the association of grand jurors, and other organizations, the governor virtually forced Dodge to appoint a young Manhattan lawyer named Thomas E. Dewey.

He is 33, a Republican, and a former United States Attorney who during a brief period of service won widespread attention for prosecutions of racketeers. He investigated and secured the indictment and conviction of the notorious Waxey Gordon. He investigated and won the indictment of the still more notorious Dutch Schultz, now on trial for income tax evasion. He won against various other racketeers, and some corrupt labor leaders.

Known for Building Air-Tight Cases—

Dewey resigned at the end of 1933 to resume his private practice. At that time he became counsel to the New York Bar Association, serving without pay, and conducted the prosecution of a city judge who resigned his post on the last day of the trial. Dewey is a leader in movements for reform in criminal courts procedure, and is especially able, legal authorities say, as a militant but methodical investigator who builds air-tight cases before he cracks them.

It is no secret that Dewey was reluctant to accept this appointment. He did accept only on assurances that he would have an absolutely free hand and aid from every enforcement agency.

As a result, his position at present is unparalleled in the history of a city which has been highlighted for a century with sensational investigations. Several factors are in his favor, notably a Fusion administration anxious to effect reforms, he funds he asked for have been voted him. The police department is headed by a commissioner whose honesty is unquestioned even by his enemies. Also State and Federal officials are taking more interest in this investigation than they have in previous ones.

Young Staff Is

Dewey still is selecting a large personal staff which will include at least 20 assistants and 10 investigators. All of these men are youngsters not long out of college, with zest and courage and freedom from political entanglements.

The police will bear the brunt of routine sleuthing, and a large squad of unnamed young cops has been picked for the work. Just out of the police academy, and unknown to racketeers and criminals, they are called X-Men. A dozen veteran detectives will assist them. A U. S. Treasury agent heads the special staff of investigating accountants. For his chief aide, Dewey has hoped to enlist Frank Wilson, the G-Man who trapped Al Capone.

Even Politicians

So Thomas Dewey finds himself well equipped for a crime drive. He repeatedly has stated that this will not be a hunt with any single objective such as vice or gambling or commercial racketeering. He is going after all the big game that he can run to earth. Crooked lawyers, judges and politicians are in his line of fire.

Commercial racketeering, estimated to collect $100,000,000 a year in tribute from employers and unions, almost certainly will occupy most of Dewey's time. Police are providing exhaustive data on all known criminals and all suspected friendships between gangsters and politicians.

Merchants' groups are promised every security for testimony on rackets. And the city's own commissioner of markets has announced he will deliver a mass of evidence "mountain-high" on racketeering in many branches of food sales and distribution. Markets and all trucking and delivery services always have been easy prey for extortioners. Recently thousands of restaurants and cafeterias have been drawn into racket rings. Then there are the clothing trades, movie theaters, all the building trades, and retail merchandising—all victims of extortion.

Racketeers Face "Admirable Dewey"

By a combined power over employers' associations and the unions of workers, racketeers have played one side against the other. It is explained. They shake down the employers for "protection" against the unions, yet collect heavy assessments from the unions to wage a fight against the employers.

To enforce their demands, racketeers still resort to stench bombings, acid throwing, beatings and a few murders. But they have encountered less and less resistance from their victims lately.

And it seems that the only man likely to save them, in the long run, is the quiet, curly-headed grimly conscientious young attorney who is known among his associates as "Admirable Dewey."

Then there are the clothing trades, movie theaters, all the building trades, and retail merchandising—all victims of extortion.

Racketeers Face "Admirable Dewey"

By a combined power over employers' associations and the unions of workers, racketeers have played one side against the other. It is explained. They shake down the employers for "protection" against the unions, yet collect heavy assessments from the unions to wage a fight against the employers.

To enforce their demands, racketeers still resort to stench bombings, acid throwing, beatings and a few murders. But they have encountered less and less resistance from their victims lately.

And it seems that the only man likely to save them, in the long run, is the quiet, curly-headed grimly conscientious young attorney who is known among his associates as "Admirable Dewey."

In New York

By PAUL HARRISON

New York—Footnotes for a Manhattan guide-book:

The Statue of Liberty, given us by France and mounted on an old stone prison, has cost more to keep afloat than France has paid us on the war debt. . . . Manhattan uses 325,000,000 gallons of water a day, but there is plenty of dirty work at the crossroads of the world.

The foreign-born population numbers 641,000, many of whom would like to go back where they came from. . . . It isn't true that there are no native New Yorkers, the birth-rate here being from 100,000 to 120,000 a year, depending on conditions in the stock market.

Ten years ago, about 6,000,000 telephone calls were being made here each day. The num-bah now has been chav-anged to seven, ni-yun, six, fi-vuv, ni-yun, oh, oh. . . . Hottest trip in town is the hour's subway ride to Coney Island to cool off. . . . The New York Chamber of Commerce was organized at France's Tavern in 1786 and hasn't been heard of since, although the tavern is still doing all right.

Treasured Ground

Passing No. 1 Wall Street, at the corner of Broadway, pause long enough to wish that one of your ancestors had owned the lot. It's the most valuable land in the world now; was bought from Trinity Church a few years ago for $10,000 a square foot, and a skyscraper-bank has sprouted from the soil. . . . Trinity Church, incidentally, was built with the aid of some ship's tackle borrowed from Captain Kidd.

The slowest and most expensive transportation in town is grudgingly provided by the hard-bitten, weather-beaten horse-cabbies across from the Hotel Plaza. It's no use trying to get them to talk about the good old days. . . . Central Park has 9 1-2 miles of roads by tape-measure, 16 3-4 miles by almost any taxi-meter. . . . Cleopatra's Needle, a so-so obelisk, cost $102,000 to bring here from Egypt and very probably isn't worth it.

Money's Worth

If all the bridges leading to Manhattan were placed end to end they would extend twelve miles, but wouldn't be much good to anybody by tape-measure. . . . On Broadway these evenings you can see the moon for a dime, dance with a beautiful girl for a nickel, get a meal for 12 cents, buy hair cut for 20 cents, buy for 10 cents a watch that won't run, buy three neckties that won't wear for a quarter, play checkers with a "master mind" for a dime, watch a man handle rattlesnakes for a nickel, and be jostled by half a million people for nothing.

Tomorrow morning's newspapers are on sale tonight; engineers are worrying about traffic problems 50 years hence; and businessmen who can't cope with the present are planning for the future. . . . You can't park on Park Avenue; Broadway isn't broad; Coney Island isn't an island; Madison Square Garden is miles from Madison Square; and the Times Square Branch Post Office is four blocks from the square.

Visitors spend an average of only a little more than an hour at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Scores of Horses and Mules Burned

Kansas City, Aug. 1—(AP)—Fire burned one barn of mules and horses and raged for an hour in the Kansas City, Mo., stockyards yesterday before it was brought under control.

More than 125 horses, some of them unbroken western saddle stock, were released by hostlers and stampeded down a main traffic artery, hindering fire trucks en route to the scene.

Approximately one block, one-tenth of the area devoted to horses and mules, was burned. Most of the other animals were housed to the south and east and were not in danger.

Ferd Owen, head of the firm was in Grand Island, Neb., but Mrs. Owen said the horses were consigned to the Cuban government and were being branded preparatory to shipments this week. The loss was covered by insurance. Mrs. Owen estimated the barn was worth $25,000. She said she believed 75 to 100 horses and mules died in the flames.

U. S. DAVIS CUP LOSS BLAMED ON PRO LURES

Lack of Long Range Plan Also Felt Big Factor

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—After eight fruitless years in quest of the Davis Cup, which France snatched from America in 1927, the United States is removed further than ever from a real prospect of recovering the famous international tennis trophy.

False hopes have been erected annually, only to come tumbling down, leaving not only dissatisfaction but frequent bitterness in their wake. It's about time the U. S. A. dominant on the courts for nearly a post-war decade, quit "kidding" itself, discarded alibis and faced the facts.

The salient facts, in retrospect, are that since 1927 America has taken only four singles matches in six challenge round flings. Three of these were gained by big Bill Tilden, the other by Ellsworth Vines. England made a clean sweep of the singles this year and last.

Has More Talent
This country has more tennis-playing talent, per capita, than any other nation. It has adequate facilities and coaching for the development of younger players. Tournament play is conducted throughout the year.

Why, with all this apparent opportunity and inspiration, can't the United States develop a team capable of picking up where Little Bill Johnston and big Bill Tilden left off?

The answer seems two-fold: First that no sustained, long-range Davis Cup plan of operations has been formulated; second, that America's class of top-flight players has proved erratic, undependable or too receptive to professional inducements.

The United States Lawn Tennis association may have been guilty of too much optimism. It may have used bad judgment in making some team selections. But the governing body can't be blamed wholly, if past performances prove an unreliable criterion or if American players fail to measure up to expected form.

Son of President is Driving Yeast Truck

Belleville, N. J., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The tall young truck driver who gets up at 5 A. M. to earn his pay with the National Grain Yeast Corporation is Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

When he isn't driving a truck, young Roosevelt, son of the President, is busy in the plant learning the business from all angles under the guidance of his older brother, James. He mixes chemicals in the laboratory, helps out in the sales division and attends conferences. But best of all, he likes to drive a truck.

"It's a swell job," he said. "Get up at the crack of dawn, drive in from Long Island with the sun and deliver yeast to bakers all day."

"When you quit at 7, you know you've done a day's work. But you've had a lot of fun."

CUBS MUFFED OPPORTUNITY FOR TOP PLACE

Trail Giants By a Half-Game; Yanks Three Behind

By ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York baseball fans may talk of a five-cent world series, but in Chicago there is a strong feeling that it will be a 10-cent affair with the elevated and not the subway providing the chief mode of transportation.

Once, in 1906, the Sox and Cubs met to decide baseball supremacy with Fielder Jones leading the American leaguers to a 4 to 2 triumph in games over the National League team, managed by Frank Chance.

Now they have hopes again with the Cubs only a half-game back of the pace setting New York Giants in the National League and the White Sox only a half game out of second place and three and one-half games to the rear of the leading Detroit Tigers in the junior circuit.

The Cubs had a golden opportunity yesterday when the Giants lost to the Phillies, but the best they could do was a split in a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates. They won the opener 4 to 2 with Roy Henshaw outpitching Cy Blanton before giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Went 11 Frames
They carried the nightcap to 11 innings before losing 6 to 5. The defeat broke the Chicagoans' winning streak at 11 games and left them with a record of 24 victories in 28 games played since July 6.

The Giants were the victims of home runs as the Phils won 5 to 3 to take the series two games to 1. John Moore and Dolph Camilli picked out one of Carl Hubbell's curves and hit successive homers in the second. Moore got another off Leon Chagnon in the ninth. Curt Davis allowed 12 hits, but Terry's double was the only extra base blow.

The White Sox closed in on the Yankees, whose game with the

The Eichlers Clothiers added their sixteenth victory of the season last night by whitewashing the Winks Specials, 5 to 0 at the airport. Morris hurling for the Clothiers allowed only three hits in getting credit for victory.

The Millway Chix romped over the luckless D-X Oils ten 17 to 4 in a slugfest. Worley and Benson were driven from the box during which offensive, the Chix launched a savage nine run rally to inundate their rivals under the top-heavy final total.

Tonight the Buster Browns will meet the Reynolds Wires at 7:30 p. m. and the Bordens will clash with the Knacks Leaders at 9 p. m. Eichler's Specials, 000 000 0-0 3 4 Morris and Burke, Evans; Strong and Daniels.

Athletics was rained out, by coming from behind to beat the Cleveland Indians 6 to 4. Mel Harder hit two homers for the Tribe but weakened in the eighth as the Sox sent four runs across the plate.

Took Advantage
The Tigers took advantage of the Yanks' idleness to gain a half-game and boost their lead to three games by trimming the last place Browns, 9-3. Hank Greenberg, Marvin Owen and Pete Fox provided the power behind Tommy Bridges' pitching, each getting three hits. The slugging first baseman pounded out home run No. 28.

Wesley Ferrell was the whole show as he chalked up his 17th victory in hurling and batting the Red Sox to a 6 to 4 victory over the Senators.

In a 10-inning night game at Cincinnati, the Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3.

DYKES MUSES ON CHANCES OF WINNING FLAG

White Sox In Thick of American Loop Fight Today

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Jimmy Dykes, the little round man who manages the third place White Sox, was about ready today to do a little pointing with pride at his pitching staff—a group of hurlers rated as about the weakest in the American league at the start of the season.

"The end of the race is a long way off and anything can happen between now and then," Dykes said, "but if our pitchers keep starting and finishing as they have in the last three weeks, we will have something to say about the outcome. I'm not even thinking about saying we will win the pennant, though, for I still think Detroit and New York have the most all around strength."

In their last 16 games, during which they trimmed the leading Tigers' margin to 3 1-2 games, and the Yankees to one-half game, the same pitcher who started for the Sox was in there at the finish. Teddy Lyons, the veteran knuckleball artist, stood at the head of the class with 12 victories and three defeats today. Vernon Kennedy, freshman righthander from Oklahoma City, had won seven and lost three, and John Whitehead, the recruit who won his first eight starts, only to run into a long victory famine, had a record of 10 victories and nine defeats.

Has Won Three
Since being promoted from the bullpen to starting duty, Ray (Babe) Phelps, a former National leaguer, has won three and lost one. After a poor start Les Tietje has built up a mark of five victories and six defeats, and Sam Jones, still a rookie at 43 years, has won four and lost three. The southpaw member of the corps, Carl Fischer, since he was obtained from Detroit has won three and lost one, including a one-hitter at Washington. Whit Wyatt, another former Tiger, has performed capably as a reliever.

Dykes also had praise for his reserves, particularly Tony Piet, Vernon (George) Washington and Marty Hopkins.

"That Piet has been a grand ball player for us," he said. "He has hit when we needed hits and his field-

DEFENDER IS HOLDING LEAD; INDIANAPOLIS

Hawaiian Links Star May Face Him In Semi-Finals

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Dave Mitchell, of Indianapolis, defending champion, and Arthur Armstrong, 18-year-old Honolulu star who was runner-up last year, led 14 other survivors into the third round of the National Public Links golf championship today.

Victories for both in two 18-hole matches would set the stage for another 36-hole meeting between the pair in the semi-final round, since both are in the lower bracket. The 27-year-old champion defeated Armstrong 5 and 3 in the final match at Pittsburgh last year.

Armstrong's third round opponent was Fred Gordon, young Santa Monica, Calif., movie lot worker who provided one of the most stunning in a wave of upsets yesterday that eliminated every other important figure from the championship picture. Gordon beat Scotty Campbell of Seattle, twice Canadian Amateur champion, one up on the final green.

Mitchell opposed Charles Amador of Staten Island.

Another California giant-killer, gray thatched Bob Tomes of Long Beach, who sent the tournament medalist, Lloyd Nordstrom of Davenport, Ia., to the sidelines with a one up victory, faced John Madara of Philadelphia.

DUCK HUNTING SEASON THIRTY DAYS THIS FALL

Most Rigid Regulations in History Put Into Effect Today

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Outlining the "most rigid regulations in the history of American wild-fowling," J. N. "Ding" Darling, chief of the biological survey, today said the nation's duck hunters will have 30 days of shooting this fall.

Darling said the regulations had been approved by President Roosevelt and that he expected them to save 50 per cent of the increase in ducks this year.

Shooting over baited water or land will be prohibited.

No live decoys can be used at any place.

Zoning of states by seasons will be eliminated and the nation will be divided into two zones, northern and southern.

Shooting will be permitted only between 7 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Possession of more than one day's limit, which was reduced from 12 to 10, will be illegal.

A three-shell limit on auto-loading and repeating shotguns will become effective.

The season will open in northern states October 21 and close November 19. In southern states it will be from November 20 to December 19.

States in the northern zone include Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri.

FORD OWNERS: Use Standard Red Crown—favorite gasoline of the men who demonstrate your car

Ford Salesmen choose Live Power almost 2 to 1 OVER ANY OTHER BRAND

THE Winner

BOX SCORE
In a recent survey by a nationally-known research organization, automobile salesmen in 126 middle west towns and cities were asked this question by impartial investigators:
What gasoline do you usually use when you demonstrate your cars?
"On the basis of this survey, the ratio of gasoline preference per 1000 Ford salesmen is as follows:
STANDARD'S LIVE POWER GASOLINE . . . 179
Second Brand . . . 94
Third Brand . . . 92
Fourth Brand . . . 78
Fifth Brand . . . 73
Sixth Brand . . . 70

PERFECT GAME

By Joseph Fort Newton
ILBERT Chesterton argues, in his up-side-down-way, that as soon as perfection is attained in any game, the game is gone.

If you become so proficient in playing any game as to be able to play it unerringly, nobody will care to see you play it—not more than once, at least. The game is dead and done for, because there is no fun in it.

As an illustration, he takes croquet—Mr. anyone still remembers that old game of long ago. If to put a ball through a distant wicket were as sure a thing as it would be to pick it up in your hand, it would not be worth doing. There would be no risk, no uncertainty in doing it.

The idea is fascinating, and worth pondering a bit. The thrill of seeing a baseball player make a wonderful catch lies in the haunting fact that we know he is liable to miss the ball, or else miff it.

As long as that is so there will be interest in the game—the fact that the very best of them make ghastly errors. It lends zest, spice, and the element of the unexpected without which the game is dull.

There is no particular thrill in hearing a mechanical piano player play a perfect scale, no matter how swiftly and accurately the notes are struck. It is all a matter of holes cut in a paper roll.

But when we hear a musician run out the tripping succession on the keyboard, we know that some finger is liable to get tangled up and wreck the music, and hence our admiration acclaimed at the finish.

To have the perfect as an ideal is essential to our best effort—no real workman would care to have before him a mediocre model. But what if the attainment of the ideal takes the joy out of life?

Does the same principle apply to life itself? Not many of us are in danger of reaching perfection—we play the game badly enough. God knows—but what if that fact makes it a game worth playing?

What if our bone-head blunders, our wild throws, our crazy shots, and all the inventory of errors, really adds to the joy of the game? At least it casts a new and kinder light upon all the players!

Be Very Careful Of Exploring Baby

By Olive Roberts Barton.

The play-pen had been shoved to the wall and small Emily provided with toys. There were two stuffed dolls, a Teddy bear, and a rattle.

Now mother could go to her ironing. The swing-door propped open between the kitchen and dining room gave her full view of the child, so she felt that nobody could be safer. Benny was out in the yard playing and the summer afternoon droned peacefully on.

Every time mother looked at the year-old-baby, she noticed the little back was turned her way. "How good she is today," she thought with relief as her iron slid swiftly over towels and napkins. "Usually she gets tired of her toys and frets."

But Emily's mother should have been suspicious. It is not in the nature of a baby this age to sit still so long.

Benny came in the front door to look for something in the hall closet. His sharp little eyes glanced into the dining-room and suddenly he shrieked. "Mama, look quick. Emily is killing herself."

Plugging in on Danger.

Mother ran, picked up Emily with shaking arms and looked.

"My goodness, Benny," she gasped, "you almost scared me to death. There's nothing wrong. Stop screaming this minute. What was she doing?"

"She had her fingers in—there," pointed Benny.

In the baseboard was set the usual wall-socket for electric attachments, its little brass door flush with the wood. But not quite tight. Through the cars of her pen baby could reach it with ease.

"Daddy told me never to touch those things. He said if I put my fingers in, it would hurt me. She had her fingers in, away in."

It had been a close call. She hadn't thought of the wall-plug, or that baby could ever get her tiny fingers under the lid and put her fist inside the hole.

Difficult Age to Watch.

Children over one are the hardest to look after and to keep safe. It takes everlasting vigilance on the part of every member of the family. Benny had been taught to keep an eye on his sister, but it was pure chance and a pair of sharp eyes that made him the hero now. His mother explained that Emily was safe now and praised him for noticing the danger. But there were a few things about the house she decided to fix at once.

There would be no more scares. She hammered down two loose tacks in the upholstery of the "stroller." She had seen one of Benny's marbles under the sofa, so now she picked it up. A pin was salvaged from a rug, and a gas key was removed from its place beside a grate. The baby was not always in her pen. She walked some and crept a lot.

All babies get to the stage when big toys do not appeal to them. They go for the tiny things. And opening lids and drawers is as natural as sleep. The whole family must be alert—constantly—because these tots are entirely unpredictable and one never knows what they will do next.

WINNING OVER HEAT

The wise housekeeper finds that careful planning and shopping are the secrets for keeping her family and herself comfortable during the hot weather. She uses the oven twice weekly for preparing foods to be used the remainder of week. Cakes, cookies, pies, breads, meat and fish loaves, roasts and baked beans can be baked and stored carefully for future use.

Even canning and preserving can be done in the oven and it requires little attention, merely an occasional stirring.

The daily food preparations should take place early in the morning and selections should be those foods easily digested and "cooling." One hot food a meal is advised even for warm weather but this food can consist of soup, stew, vegetables or hot beverage.

The ideal summer desserts consist of fresh fruits, berries or melons and these are easily prepared. Of course frozen foods win favor too and they can be quickly made from chilled fruit juices stored in refrigerator.

Canned fruits, vegetables, meats, fish and soups are labor savers and should be used extensively.

Protection for Food Against Heat

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

Is your pantry all ready for the hot weather? A set of well selected containers is one of the greatest aids toward keeping food in good condition. Glass, earthenware, or aluminum dishes are good for storing foods, both cooked and raw.

Milk, fresh vegetables, fruits and meats deteriorate in a short time and should be prepared promptly for the refrigerator when they come from market and immediately stored. Cleaning foods before putting them into the refrigerator keeps the ice box clean, and saves ice or current, according to the type of your refrigerator.

Soft fruits like berries keep better if they are taken at once from the box in which they are marketed and spread on a platter or large plate. Cover with cheesecloth or wire screen and keep in a cool place. If a cool cellar is not available and berries must be stored in the refrigerator, put them in the warmest place.

Put Food Away Quickly
Put food away quickly after every meal. When any food destined for the ice box is allowed to stand in the hot kitchen or left unnecessarily long on the dining table, an extra amount of ice is required to chill it, and, of course, there is danger of the milk and cream turning.

Buy as little as possible in hot weather. Make it a habit to use left-overs promptly unless, of course, you have adequate refrigeration. Cooked vegetables that have been served buttered for the first meal can appear in a vegetable or combination salad, or may be reheated in a cream sauce or served au gratin. This changes the dish enough to make it acceptable for the following meal.

Vegetables and meats that have been prepared with milk require extra precautions. The milk should be actively boiled if there is a chance of some of the dish being left. After the meal it should be cooled quickly and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

All creamed dishes should be used within twenty-four hours. It's a worthwhile precaution to reheat all creamed foods, gravies, sauces and soup stocks that must be kept more than 24 hours. Bring quickly to the boiling point, boil vigorously for a few minutes and cool quickly on the morning of the second day. Then they may be kept on ice with perfect safety for another twenty-four hours.

Guard Bread Against Molds

Bread and bread crumbs require particular care. Crumbs and odd slices of bread should not be allowed to accumulate in the bread box. Those not usable for toast should be dried thoroughly in a cool oven and saved for crumbing. Frequent scalding and sunning of the bread container helps to keep the bread fresh and prevents mold.

Buttered toast does not keep well and should never be stored in the bread box.

It seems wisest to buy flours and cereals in small quantities while the weather is hot. Dry foods delivered in paper bags should be turned into glass or metal containers for safety against mice and weevils. Flours, cereals and sugars are sensitive to moisture in the air and absorb it readily, so airtight cans are desirable for this reason also.

Crackers and ready-to-serve cereals lose their crispness very quickly if they are exposed to the air. However, they can be made crisp again by placing them in the oven for ten or fifteen minutes. They must be cooled before serving.

Some Specialties For Summertime

Spiced bananas make delicious meat accompaniments: boil 3-4 cup cider vinegar, 2-3 cup sugar, 24 whole cloves and 1 small stick of cinnamon until sugar is dissolved and bubbles begin to look thick. Peel 3 bananas, drop into hot syrup and boil hard for 2 minutes; remove from fire and cool.

Use whipped irradiated evaporated milk to "eke out" your cream in making summer desserts.

Muffin Crisps, dainty, toasted Swedish-type wafers, make perfect accompaniments for summer salads.

Mary Washington's gingerbread mix makes delectable cup cakes if you add just 3-4 cup of water to the mix and bake in muffin tins.

Egg Nogs are nutritious as well as delicious if you add 1 tablespoon of white karo to each serving, beat companions for summer salads.

Rice served with cheese sauce makes a tempting supper dish: Be sure to "fluff the rice" and then pour over it 1 cup white sauce to which 3-4 cup of mild cheese has been added. Heat until cheese is melted.

APPLE SAUCE IN PIE
Apple sauce and custard on a boiled rice shell makes a pie you haven't tasted but will like! Press 2 1-2 cups cold boiled rice through a sieve, add 2 tablespoons melted butter and 2 tablespoons of sugar and mix well, and press into an oiled pie dish. Beat 2 eggs slightly and add 3 tablespoons sugar, salt and milk, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add apple sauce, mix well,

But who could trip
Over a marmalade?
Just make—and sip!

HOT WEATHER DRINKS—MARMALADES

If you are having a tea party, or if you have hungry children wanting a mid-afternoon snack, well and good; but you really need not even think of keeping a cold beverage always in the refrigerator in hot weather. An iced drink is refreshing both physically and mentally, and after a hard day it supplies much-needed fuel for waning energy.

To the class of drinks known as marmalades, campfire marmalades lend a special smoothness and seeming richness, without actually contributing any more calories than a proportionate amount of sugar. Marmalades are generally made with fruit juices, so they are extremely wholesome for children, and an effective means of saving "pop" nickels.

LOGANBERRY MARMALADE

24 campfire marmalades 1 cup water
2 cups loganberries 4 tablespoons lemon juice
berry juice 1/4 teaspoon salt

Melt marshmallows with water in top of double boiler. Remove from stove and add fruit juices and salt. Chill. When ready to serve add an equal quantity of water or ginger ale and some cracked ice. The undiluted fruit syrup may be kept for several days in a tightly closed jar in the refrigerator. Serves 8.

Many other fruit juices—orange, grape, pineapple, etc.—may be used to make delicious marmalades. The important point to remember is that lemon juice brings out most fruit flavors. Many of the fruit syrups may be combined with chilled milk instead of water; this is especially a good plan with a child who has difficulty in taking enough milk.

CAMPFIRE MARSHMALLOW KITCHEN PHOTO

and pour onto rice. Dust top with nutmeg and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until custard is set.

EVER TRY "LAZY LOAF"?
You don't have to be lazy to enjoy the luncheon loaf of that name. Put 2 cups leftover or canned baked beans, four ounces cream cheese and 3 minced pimientos through the food chopper; mix thoroughly and add enough bread crumbs (about 1 cup) to make mixture into a roll. Season to taste and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) or shape into cutlets and pan fry in hot hazola for about 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

SERVE THEM "NUDIST!"
The smartest hotels are serving their first or last course fruits "au naturel" which of course simply means in the raw! Easy and cool! Bananas served right in their own skins are especially attractive. Just slit the skin and roll a section back toward stem end. Slice the banana, allowing all the slices to remain in place in the skin. Serve with a fork, on a fresh green leaf for color.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS
Cardinal Dressing is made by adding a fourth-cup currant jelly, fourth-cup whipped cream and a fourth-cup of chopped salted almonds to mayonnaise. Looks pretty—tastes good!

Slice some pasteurized dates over your vanilla ice cream, for a hasty sundae the children will praise.

Red raspberries find a perfect partner in golden ripe bananas. The economical banana makes the raspberries "go farther" too!

A five-minute pie filling that beats your own "lemon meringue" is made with the new lemon kernel—it takes only a minute and

"comes out right" every single time!

Fried ham, fluffy boiled rice and brown gravy combine with lettuce-tomato salad and followed by fruit is a summer-time meal that "goes over."

New Englanders like blueberries in their gingerbread! Make the gingerbread as usual using the prepared Washington mix; add floured berries to the batter; bake in cup cake tins.

Sliced bananas and crisp, crunchy corn flakes are the perfect August breakfast!

"TOMATO SOUP CAKE"

REQUESTS FOUR IN

For some reason editors throughout the country report a deluge of requests for "tomato soup cake." It sounds weird to the uninitiated, but try some and understand that such popularity must be deserved!

Tomato Soup Cake: Cream 1-2 cup butter and 1 cup sugar until smooth, then add 1 beaten egg and mix thoroughly. Dissolve 1 teaspoon soda in 1 can tomato soup, and alternate with 1 3-4 cups flour which has been sifted with 2 teaspoons cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Mix thoroughly and stir in 1 cup sliced pasteurized dates and 1 cup chopped walnut meats. Place in greased and floured shallow loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Cool and "frost" with a cream cheese frosting.

The Crusaders do not condone a single dishonest business man. On the contrary, they bitterly condemn him. But they do discriminate between the destroyer and the builder. And they believe that the smallest shop-keeper is to the degree of his activity just as important to the prosperity of the country as the greatest corporation. The bulk of American labor is employed in small or moderately sized factories. The bulk of clerical help is engaged in small stores and offices. When we frighten and ham-string business we scare the small operator with a half dozen employees just as much as the large operator with ten thousand men on the payroll. We require no change in the Constitution to give our million and a half business men confidence and courage to take advantage of the great commercial activity now before them. The opposite is only too true. It is fear of political policies leading to fundamental constitutional changes in our form of government that is holding back the floodwaters of prosperity.

SOME OPTIMISM EXPRESSED IN GENEVA TODAY

Some Officials Expect Formula to Avert War May Be Reached

BULLETIN Addis Ababa, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mass recruiting for the Ethiopian army began today in the capital.

The recruiting was preceded by a military review and a mass meeting in front of the ministry of war.

The action was taken following a war council by the high chiefs of Ethiopia.

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Geneva, Aug. 1.—Certain league of nations circles predicted today, following a long distance telephone conference between Premier Laval of France and Premier Mussolini of Italy, that a formula for the settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute would be agreed upon within 24 hours.

The impression grew that Il Duce had proved somewhat conciliatory in his talk with Laval.

This optimism was expressed despite the fact that only a few hours earlier the Italian delegation to the special session of the league council, summoned to attempt a solution of the crisis, had declared an Anglo-French formula "entirely unacceptable."

Formula Prepared

The formula had been prepared overnight by Anthony Eden of Great Britain and Laval. The text of the formula was communicated at once to Mussolini in Italy. A spokesman for the Italian delegation "told The Associated Press: 'The atmosphere among Italians is one of distinct pessimism.'"

Laval immediately called Mussolini by long distance telephone urging him to abandon his opposition to the plan.

The two premiers held a long conversation. It was understood the French leader called the attention of Italy's chief to the gravity of the situation from the standpoint of the League of Nations, Europe, and the world.

Objects to Equality

It was said Italy objected particularly to the outstanding provision of the formula, providing virtually for a broad political conference between England, France, Italy and Ethiopia.

Italy apparently objected to sitting with Ethiopia on a basis of equality, raising the point that the East African empire was not a party to the 1906 treaty among England, France and Italy, guaranteeing maintenance of the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Ethiopia.

This treaty was chosen as the basis for proposed negotiations among England, France and Italy for continued peace between Ethiopia and Italy.

EMPEROR IS FEARFUL

Addis Ababa, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The supreme chiefs of Ethiopia's far-flung tribes, rallying to a war council, were reported today to have expressed fear to Emperor Haile Selassie that "it may be too late now to prevent war."

One source said the emperor was gravely concerned by mounting evidence that tens of thousands of his warriors were eager for open hostilities at once to avenge what they regarded as an Italian "slur" on their ancient kingdom.

Haile Selassie, apparently anxious to do nothing to increase the tension, rebuked sternly some of the more rash leaders who were understood to have urged a breaking off of diplomatic relations with Italy.

Manifesto Issued

The united loyalty of the Rases, or tribal chieftains, was emphasized in a manifesto issued after yesterday's secret session in the palace courtyard, asserting that no

PREVIEW 1936 CAMPAIGN FOR ILLINOIS FAIR

Democrats Plan Big Governor's Day August 22nd.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A preview of the 1936 political campaign may be obtainable at the Illinois State Fair during the week of August 17 to 24.

Used by both Democratic and Republican parties as a show ring in which to trot out candidates, state fair week has been the start of political campaigns in Illinois for years.

The majority party has its inning on Governor's day which comes on August 22 this year.

Plans were made by Democratic leaders yesterday for Governor's Day which will find Governor Horner with more than two-thirds of the downstate county Democratic committees pledged to his renomination and re-election.

Plans for Republican day are more or less indefinite. Some of the GOP leaders are disposed to let the state fair pass without any special effort being made in their party's behalf, believing that "harmony" among the various factions within the party can be obtained if no one group is given an opportunity to "steal the show" at the fair.

mandate of any nature over Ethiopia would be accepted.

"It is liberty—unfettered liberty—or death," one chieftain told The Associated Press.

"One signal of fire from the hill-top of Addis Ababa and a million men will spring to arms."

More troops from distant mountain and desert strongholds were en route north.

MORE TROOPS EMBARK

Rome, Aug. 1.—(AP)—More than 2,000 soldiers and workmen embarked at Naples today for Massaua to plunge into the whirl of activity which Italy's dispute with Ethiopia has produced at that one-time sleepy Eritrean port.

The steamship Viminale sailed for East Africa with 750 troops and 465 laborers, the steamship Remolo with 700 soldiers and 153 workmen. Both vessels were to pick up additional troops at Messina, Sicily.

Squadron General Giuseppe Valle, undersecretary for air, also intended to fly to Massaua today to observe the progress made in assembling Italy's aerial strength at its East African colony.

The military activities were the sole manifestations here of the crisis. Official circles awaited developments in the League of Nations council session at Geneva before committing themselves further on Italy's policy.

MANGIN HALTED IN ATTEMPT TO REACH "TOP TEN"

Place in Sun Among Big Net Powers Again Denied

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Gregory S. Mangin's campaign to regain a berth in the nation's "first ten" tennis players has been halted temporarily, at least.

He was sailing along serenely until yesterday by an old Jersey rival, J. Gilbert Hall, in the quarter-final round of the Meadow club's annual invitation tournament, 8-6, 6-4.

Hall moved into the penultimate round and today opposes Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, Calif., who conquered tall Henry Prusoff of Seattle, upsetter of Billy Grant on Tuesday.

The other semi-finalists were young Frankie Parker of Lawrenceville, N. J., and Cliff Sutter, registered from Detroit.

ILLINOIS NEW TRAFFIC CODE IS EXPLAINED

Hitch-Hiking Barred by New State Law Which is Now Effective

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Hitch-hiking is now illegal in Illinois. Ride "thumbers" are subject to arrest.

Automobile drivers involved in an accident in which a person is killed or injured must make a report to the state division of highways within 24 hours.

These provisions in the new code regulating Illinois highway traffic were pointed out today by Chief Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman.

He also called attention to drastic penalties, with ten days in jail or a $100 fine as the minimum, for driving a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The new code provides a jail sentence for violation of any of its sections, which requires that trials cannot be had before a justice of the Peace or a Police Magistrate as has been customary in the past.

To Correct Conditions

"The tremendous toll of deaths, injuries and property damage resulting from traffic accidents, which is showing a steady increase, has demanded more adequate legislation," Lieberman said.

"Our old laws, which were drawn to cover conditions existing in the horse and buggy days, have now been repealed by legislation designed to correct the conditions brought on by the modern motor car and highway."

Of the hitch-hikers, who attempt to "thumb" rides, Lieberman said, "A nuisance has been eliminated in the new act by the provision that pedestrians must not stand in the roadway for the purpose of soliciting a ride from the driver of a private vehicle. The state police will warn and in instances arrest those pedestrians."

The report on injuries or deaths by the driver must give all details of the accident.

Reports Confidential

"The law provides that these reports be for the confidential use of the department and no statement contained on a report may be used as evidence in any legal action," the chief engineer stated. "Compulsory reporting will enable the department to make an accurate analysis of accident causes and by maintaining spot maps where highway defects might be contributing to traffic reports, efforts can then be directed toward elimination of such causes of hazardous road conditions."

On first convictions, persons driving while intoxicated are subject to imprisonment from ten days to one year and to fines from $100 to $1,000. Subsequent convictions carry heavier penalties.

"Accidents resulting from intoxicated drivers have shown such a rapid increase that this section will be rigidly enforced," Lieberman stated.

Other Provisions

Lieberman pointed out that the new code:

Removes the 45 mile per hour prima facie speed limit, but requires that motorists drive at reasonable speeds and don't endanger life and property.

Requires that vehicles be driven fast enough so that normal traffic isn't impeded, with failure to speed up now being a misdemeanor.

Eliminates diagonal or angle parking on streets used as extensions of state highways.

Provides that drivers use signals to make known their intention to turn or stop.

Subjects bicycle riders to all regulations applicable to automobiles.

Requires that all vehicles be maintained in a safe operating condition.

SOVIET U-BOAT SINKS WITH 55 NAVAL STUDENTS

Details of Tragedy in Gulf of Finland are Not Revealed

Moscow, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Soviet government turned its resources today to the raising of the hulk of the sunken war-time submarine B-3, which became a death trap for 55 Russian officers, seamen and cadets.

An official communique disclosed that the 18-year-old U-boat, taking part in Baltic fleet maneuvers, went down in the Gulf of Finland last Thursday in the worst disaster to befall the Russian fleet in years.

The submarine, rising from deep water after an under-water cruise, smashed into a surface vessel. Water poured through a gaping hole in the U-boat's side and it sank immediately.

"All aboard the submarine perished," said the official statement. The government announced that 10,000 rubles would be granted to the family of each victim and that pensions would be paid. It planned a mass funeral at Kronstadt, where many of the students were attending naval school.

Complete details of the tragedy were not disclosed.

The submarine was of the old "bars" type, built in 1917 toward the end of Russia's participation in the World War.

STEPHENSON MAY GET NEW CHANCE WITH CUBS NINE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—An injury to Gabby Hartnett may bring hot-headed Walter Stephenson, fired third-string catcher, back into the Chicago Cubs' fold.

Officials of the Cubs started a search for the rookie last night after an examination disclosed that Hartnett, ace-catcher of the rambling Chicago team, fractured a bone in his ankle during the double-header earlier against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Stephenson was released by Manager Charles Grimm Tuesday after he fought with Billy Jurges, Chicago shortstop.

Other players said Stephenson became enraged because Jurges and other players had been "riding" him. The rookie left for Chicago Tuesday night.

Hartnett's injury was received in the first game of yesterday's double-header against the Pirates. He limped to the dugout after the game and received preliminary medical treatment, after which the examination was ordered. Despite the injury Hartnett finished the game.

DEMOCRATS PIN '36 HOPES UPON REAL RECOVERY

Voters Have Habit of Re-electing in Its Prosperous Years

By RYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Hope of a real business recovery now figures very prominently in Democratic political expectations for 1936.

Administration officials do little public talking about it, but privately they get great store by recent signs of economic improvement; and they argue that if the depression is definitely and obviously on the run by mid-summer of next year, nothing on earth can stop Mr. Roosevelt's re-election.

For this reasoning they rely on the lessons of political history. Regardless of other issues, American voters have a habit of re-electing in prosperous years and changing administrations in lean years. No one doubts that it was hard times, rather than any elemental conflict of liberalism against conservatism, which had most to do with Mr. Hoover's defeat in 1932.

Some of the Democratic strategists are beginning to see a similar situation for 1936. Liberalism and conservatism will be much talked of during the campaign. Constitutionalism will be debated from one end of the country to the other. But, say these strategists, the really deciding factor may well be the economic condition of the country, which no amount of oratory can change.

Favorable Factors

The experts never agree fully about the meaning of economic trends, but those who believe prosperity is on the way have called attention recently to some highly interesting facts.

During those summer months when industrial activity usually lags, there has been a widespread quickening instead. Without going into wearisome statistics, representative features of the case include:

A sudden rise in steel production, always regarded as a leader in the vast industrial field of the "heavy industries."

An even greater jump in the sale of automobiles, with no special cause discernible.

An upturn in home construction, a realm where the financial well-being and general confidence of the ordinary citizen usually are reflected.

An easing of credit, and a drop in interest rates, showing that hoarded bank surpluses are thawing.

A marked increase in the issuance of new securities, always an evidence of industrial expansion.

Boom Predicted

Economists point out, further, that these and other favorable indications have developed at a time when congress is in session, dealing uncertainly with the most vital issues, and when governmental spending is at a far lower level than had been expected.

On this basis, an impressive business boom is forecast in many quarters when the normal seasonal fall upturn coincides with a congressional adjournment and with the beginning of large-scale disbursement of the $4,000,000,000 works fund.

The reason administration officials are not making extensive public claims is that they recall vividly the repercussions from that unfortunate boast of the Hoover administration that prosperity was "just around the corner." Official utterances on this subject are certain to be definitely qualified.

All the same, the situation is the subject of much lively interest throughout Washington; and, rightly or wrongly, the inspiration for much of the Democratic talk that the 1936 campaign is all over but the shouting.

Reply to Germany's Protest Ready for Transmission Today

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The State Department's reply to the German government, giving assurance of an effort to prosecute persons who ripped the Nazi emblem from the liner Bremen, was believed to be ready for presentation today.

The diplomatic reply to a protest from the Reich government will be handed to Dr. Rudolph Leitner, German charge d'affaires.

While Acting Secretary William Phillips did not reveal the contents of the note, it was learned it will relate briefly the efforts of the New York police department to guard the German vessel and subdue the crowd last week.

The note also will point out that some of those who participated in the incident have been arrested. Whether the reply will contain an apology—which was not demanded—or an expression of regret, was not learned.

The German note of protest said the Bremen incident constituted an insult to Germany.

THEIR BIG MISTAKE

Bowling Green, O.—Two men, booked as Don Redick, 25, of Detroit, and Paul Allen, 23, of Mount Vernon, Ill., awaited a grand jury hearing on burglary. Both pleaded guilty and were held to the grand jury under $1000 bond. They were arrested as they accidentally sounded the horn of an automobile which they were allegedly attempting to steal. The owner of the car recognized the sound and called police.

An applicant for an amateur pilot's license is required to have had 25 hours of solo flying, including at least five hours in the 60 days preceding the application.

LIQUOR CONTROL SEEN CLOUDING SENATE HORIZON

House Turned Its Thumbs Down on Administra- tion's Desires

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—The House turned thumbs down on the known wishes of the administration in passing the bill creating a new system of federal regulation of the liquor traffic, but a stiff fight is in prospect before the measure becomes law.

A showdown is promised in the Senate and possibly later in conference on two important phases of the bill setting up the Federal alcohol administration—made necessary by the fact that when the Supreme Court invalidated NRA it also stripped the old FACA of all its authority.

The first of these concerns the identity of the new agency of control.

The administration recommended to Congress that an independent agency similar to FACA be established. The contention was that an independent body would have more prestige, be better able to discharge its quasi-judicial duties and show a greater responsiveness to public opinion during the present experimental stage of repeal.

'Bulk' Sales Issue Vital
The House thought otherwise. Despite the fact that Secretary Morgenthau had appeared before the House committee and registered vigorous objections, the House vested authority for liquor control in a subordinate office of the treasury department.

Far more important, however, is the second point of disagreement between the House and the administration.

The House removed restrictions hitherto imposed on interstate sales of liquor—"in bulk"—that is, in kegs and barrels. Bona fide hotels and clubs, under the House bill, may buy liquor in wooden containers and resell to their patrons.

Joseph H. Choate, former chairman of FACA, advised strongly against such a move. Secretary Morgenthau flatly declared the move would complicate enormously the enforcement of existing laws. Other administration officials argued in like manner, but were ignored.

Opponents' Three Points
Lines are being drawn in the Senate for a determined fight to enact a bill more in accord with the administration's ideas, especially as to the question of sales "in bulk."

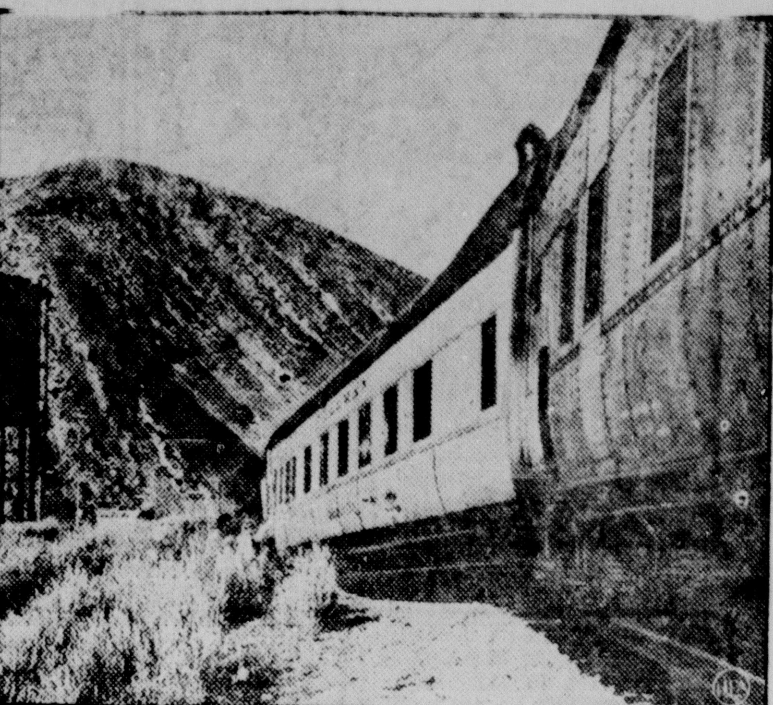

Administration supporters say privately the reason the House went against their recommendations is because in debate the question was reduced to the level of a struggle between the bottle makers

Alice McHenry's Sister Rebels

The social value of an upside-down stomach was revealed by Jean McHenry, 15, elder sister of Alice Jane McHenry, whose top-survey interior brought national attention. Life for Alice in New York had been a succession of parties, says Jean, while she spent most of her time alone at her hotel. Here's Jean about to hop into a plane at Newark airport to fly home to Omaha, where she hopes to enjoy herself.

'Rail Bullet' Halted by Mishap

In one of the first accidents ever to befall a modern streamlined train, two cars of the "City of Portland," which makes the Chicago-Portland Ore. run, longest in the nation, are shown above, twisted off the rails in a Wyoming canyon. After being derailed, the cars sped over the ties for a quarter mile. No one was injured.

and the coopers and industry and that the barrel makers simply won. The opponents of sales "in bulk" in the Senate will base their arguments around three main points:

1. It would mean a breakdown in standards established in the consumer's interest.

2. It would permit tampering by wholesalers with the distiller's product.

3. And it would constitute a backward step in the direction of the old pre-prohibition era.

DAILY HEALTH

FOOD AND THE MAN: I

Napoleon is credited with the statement that an army marches on its stomach. In this cryptic fashion he emphasized the value of a good commissary to the army.

Napoleon's observation is valid not only for an army, but for mankind as a whole. For history reveals that the march of progress for many a race was in many instances affected by the availability of food and by dietary habits.

At the beginning of the present century it was for the first appreciated that the omission from the everyday diet of certain substances often leads to the development of disease.

In the intervening years we have learned to appreciate our "vitamin alphabet." The value of such minerals as iron and copper, and of such salts as calcium and phosphorus, has likewise been impressed upon us by our scientific studies and our clinical experience.

We have learned, therefore, to appreciate fully certain negative aspects of diet—the disastrous results that follow dietary deficiencies and dietary inadequacies.

But that it not all there is to "food and the man." There is an affirmative phase, one that promises the creation of a superior type of man through the consumption of a superior diet.

In 1906 Donaldson established that the average normal weight of the widely used experimental animal, the albino rat, was 165 grams at the age of 100 days. A few years later, under improved nutritive conditions, the standard weight for rats at that age was raised to 200 grams. Within another decade the average weight at 100 days was 315 grams.

In other words, during a period of fifteen years under conditions that were not varied except for improvement in food, the rate of growth of these animals was trebled and the standard weight for the species was about doubled. And in every respect the animals were "bigger and better."

Labor Trouble Menaces Boulder Dam Progress

Work on Boulder Dam is almost at a standstill since labor disaffection has spread through most of the crafts employed on the mammoth project. With a majority of the 1600 normally employed already idle, union machinists walked off the job, with truck drivers threatening to follow unless given assurance of a wage adjustment. The crest of the dam is strikingly shown above, with the roadway across the top which soon will be open to the public. This will afford a good route from Las Vegas, Nev., to Kingman, Ariz. Intake tower tops can be seen over the dam and the Arizona spillway, is at the extreme right.

Behind the Scenes

BY WILLIS THORNTON
Dixon Telegraph Washington Correspondent

Washington—Another rumor that you can cross off the list is the one about Gen. Hugh Johnson running for the U. S. Senate seat of Oklahoma's blind Thomas P. Gore. The general has just about decided that there's nothing to it for him.

Not that he couldn't make it. He would have an excellent chance to beat Gore. But the general, since leaving NRA, had done very well for himself, thank you, amassing a neat pile of something between $100,000 and $200,000, largely by highly paid writing. (Which he does himself, mostly in longhand.)

He might have to toss most of that stake into a campaign for the Senate seat, and while he is given a better than 50-50 chance to win, still you can't sometimes most always tell in politics.

He'd be taking a chance. And why rock the boat when you're sitting pretty?

The general, except for his writing, is devoting almost all his time to the New York work-relief problem.

lem—he isn't doing a thing at present for Barney Baruch, who is in Europe.

A man who has a lot of money, like Senator Couzens, can afford to serve in the Senate and never worry about election or re-election. To a man who hasn't anything, the $10,000 Senate salary looks good, and he, too, can take a chance.

But to one who has just made a good start in rebuilding a neat fortune, the "everything to lose, nothing to gain" angle weighs heavily.

Nailed to the Mast

A neat sidelight on public utility tactics toward regulation was outlined the other day in the Senate investigation of utility lobbying. On the stand was John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light Co., who had come to Washington quite frankly to oppose the holding company death sentence bill.

The ground of opposition was that such regulation was more properly a state matter.

Then Senator Louis B. Schwellenbach of Washington pounced on Carpenter. He pointed out that Texas hasn't any state regulation, and showed that Carpenter's company had opposed bills in the legislature aimed at establishing such regulation.

Local communities were jealous of their right to keep such regulation, Carpenter averred.

"And I suppose your company shared their jealousy?" sneered Schwellenbach.

Carpenter demurred, ducked, sidestepped. He admitted nothing, but the picture of tactics was pretty plain to the shirt-sleeved listeners who crowded the hearing room.

The company went to Washington to oppose national regulation, saying this was better left to the states. Then it went to Austin to oppose state regulation, saying this was better left to the communities. When you get it down to the local community, the problem is comparatively easy.

Big Job Just a Big Guess

The vagueness of big executives about their jobs which was so sharply brought out during the stock market investigation crops up all the time in the utilities lobby. Carpenter, for instance, replied to questions that "I think perhaps I was" vice president of this or that corporation, or "I don't know what securities they bought and sold" when asked about a security firm of which he was a director.

FIVE MILLIONS ALLOTTED FOR CHECK OF TAXES

White Collar Jobless to be Employed on New Relief Projects

Washington, Aug. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today allotted $5,112,125 of work relief funds to the treasury department for a three-fold drive to tighten up on tax collections.

Included will be an intensive check-up on income tax returns of the "little fellow," and a drive against "evasions" of liquor taxes.

White collar jobless will be employed in the work. Officials said they hoped the studies would bring increased tax revenues.

The largest allotment was $2,448,290 for a survey of delinquent taxes and "nuisance" tax collections in 20 large cities. The bureau of internal revenue also received $1,577,894 to check small income tax returns and $1,086,941 for a nation-wide study of retail liquor tax evasions.

Two other white collar projects also received funds, the census bureau getting allotments of $1,804,948 for an alphabetical index of the 1900 census, and $293,000 to determine any improvement in retail trade during the past two years. The census index is to be used in the government's old age pension program.

Coincidentally, Corrington Gill, assistant works progress administrator, announced that a large number of other surveys also would be carried out to provide additional white collar jobs, and that a clearing house had been set up to prevent duplication of activities.

Commenting on the income tax check-up, treasury officials said that in recent years revenue agents have been able to examine only 350,000 of the 700,000 returns sent them for study. Those examined have been returns of larger taxpayers. Now the small taxpayer will be checked. About 1,000 people will be employed on the new job.

Five Mexican Farmers Murdered From Ambush

Mexico City, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mexico's turbulent political situation produced reports today of the slayings of five agrarians in the state of Colima.

Dispatches from Colima said the agrarians were killed, supposedly in an ambush, while returning to Ocotilla after conferring with President Lázaro Cárdenas on agrarian problems.

From the state of Tabasco came reports that the new Governor General Aureo C. Calles, and the military commander, General Miguel Henríquez, had given opponents of Tomas Garrido Canabal, former political dictator of the state, 24 hours to leave under a threat of forcible expulsion.

Capital representatives of the student group campaigning against Garrido obtained a Federal injunction to prevent the order from being put into effect.

SUN-TAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO DARIEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo hunts a job and secures part time work in a marine supply store. There she meets wealthy handsome DOUGLAS MARSH who offers her the job of hostess at his inn at Great Lake. Jo accepts. This causes a quarrel with BRET PAUL to whom she is engaged and Jo breaks the engagement.

She goes to Great Lake. Her duties are pleasant but Marsh's eccentric mother takes a dislike to the girl. BABS MONTGOMERY, a school acquaintance who is jealous of Jo's popularity, comes to the inn. PETER FRAGONET, film actor, and his wife are also guests.

Fragonet takes Jo out in a sailboat. There is an accident and she narrowly escapes drowning. Next day Fragonet comes to see her. He tells Jo he loves her, takes her in his arms. Mrs. FRAGONET and MRS. MARSH witness this scene and accuse Jo of encouraging Fragonet's attentions.

Fragonet goes to Hollywood, promising to return soon. Jo discovers that Bret Paul is the new life guard at Great Lake. She and Bret have a talk, but the rift between them remains.

Jo, on her way to the inn, encounters Marsh.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII
"WELL," smiled Marsh, "it's nice to see you able to be about, Jo—and you're looking remarkably fit, too."

Jo held out her hand. "You've no idea how nice it is," she laughed. "I'm afraid I've been a great deal more trouble than you bargained for."

"Nonsense! These things will happen sometimes."

"I don't mean . . . just the accident out on the lake," Jo said. "I mean your voice now."

He met her eyes squarely for a moment. "Look here, Jo, let's have a little talk about things, shall we?" He rubbed his chin uncomfortably. "I want to rid myself of this hunting beard, and you'll want to change, no doubt. Suppose we meet down by the garage in half an hour or so?"

Jo nodded, relieved that she was to know where Marsh stood. And perhaps he could help her, too, with Fragonet. If she stayed on at Crest Lake until the actor returned there might be further awkward situations, Jo well knew.

When she reached her room she telephoned Tubby that the tennis game was off. "The boss wants a conference with me," she told Tubby lightly. "So I'll postpone my challenge until tomorrow—if I'm still here."

"That's all right with me," Tubby said. "And don't worry. You'll be here, all right."

Marsh was running his car from the garage just as Jo appeared, having changed her swim suit for a gay cotton print that revealed her lovely tanned shoulders and not a little of her enviable back.

"Sure you won't need a wrap?" Marsh asked. "It gets rather cool along these forest roads, and I thought we might have dinner at the Lone Tree Tavern. It'll be a welcome change for you, after being cooped up in your room for so long."

"Well . . ." Jo hesitated, thinking of the thin cotton frock. "I'll drive by the steps of the Inn and have Tom bring you something. I've a leather jacket that'll be just the thing."

TOOT from Marsh's horn brought the smiling Oriental who was quickly despatched for the leather jacket, and half a minute later the little green roadster was climbing valiantly toward the knoll above the inn.

Marsh drove in silence, and Jo wondered how to begin the questions which were tossing around in her head. Finally, to her immense relief, Marsh himself asked a question which opened the subject that was worrying her most.

"Did Pete Fragonet bother you while I was gone?" he asked.

Jo shook her head. "No . . . he wrote me a note just before he left for Hollywood."

Marsh chuckled reminiscently. "He promised me he wouldn't try to see you. But I had to promise too!" He turned to her, smiling. "He seems really to be in love with you, Jo."

"He imagines that he is," she replied. "And for the time being that makes it just as difficult as if he were."

"Then you don't love him?" Marsh asked.

"No . . ."

He was silent a moment, and when he spoke again his voice was freighted with relief. "You don't know how glad I am to hear you say that, Jo. Pete Fragonet is a friend of mine. I've liked him very much—but he's like a great spoiled child, and a spoiled child can hurt."

"You mean you wouldn't quite trust him?"

"Not with a woman's happiness," Marsh said quietly. "And yet I shouldn't say that about a friend. Perhaps, this time, Pete is on the level. Why shouldn't you be the one woman he's fallen in love with and want to keep forever? You're young and beautiful, and you—"

JO interrupted, embarrassed by Marsh's words. "Talking of Fragonet brings up the whole question of whether or not I should stay on here, Mr. Marsh."

"Of course you should stay. Why not?"

"I've caused trouble—and talk."

"Let me talk," Marsh said. "And if I hear any of it myself I'll put them right side up in a devil of a hurry."

"But I don't think we've heard the end of it," Jo said. "Mrs. Fragonet is likely to make trouble, and with Fragonet so well known there are sure to be stories in the newspapers."

"We'll hope for the best, Jo."

"But . . . it would be awfully bad for the name of Crest Lake," Marsh laughed. "If I were running a strictly commercial enterprise I might worry about that. But I'm doing this for fun mainly, and most of the people who come here are my friends. If they're real friends it won't matter how much scandal Fragonet stirs up."

"But—," Jo faltered, "there's always the chance that—that your name might get mixed up some way."

He turned to her with a wide grin. "I remember one thing my father told me when I was just a little kid. He said that if I had any brains and was able to keep what he left me people would be sure to talk about me whenever they got the chance. He said not to worry about it, because if I didn't get into a scandal then people would eventually manufacture one about me."

"I don't think your mother believes that," Jo remarked mischievously.

"You're right. Mother didn't believe very much of anything that Dad said."

"Don't you really think it would be better for me to leave before Fragonet comes back with the picture company?" Jo asked.

"I do not," Marsh answered quickly. "I'll wire them they can't make scenes on my place before I'll see you leave on that account. And I'll tell you this, Jo. There's no don't trying to run away from Pete Fragonet. You've got to face him and tell him you don't love him and never could love him."

"That's hard to do," Jo said. "I—somehow I sort of feel sorry for him."

Marsh nodded. "That's what Pete does to women, all right. He brings out the mother instinct in 'em. I suppose that's why he's so darned popular on the screen."

"You can make fun of me if you want, but that's the way I feel."

HE turned quickly. "I'm not making fun of you, Jo. I'm just trying to warn you that Pete Fragonet has a lot of charm. And I don't want to see you hurt. That's all." He stopped the car, began fishing in his pockets for cigars. After considerable searching he found a lone cigar, somewhat flattened but still capable of giving a smoke. Laughing, he snapped it in two and inserted one of the halves between Jo's lips.

"Let's forget Fragonet," he said, holding a light for her. "There are a lot of things more important to us right now."

"For instance?"

"Well," Marsh went on, starting the car, "we're darned near out of cigars. It's a beautiful day, and we're both young enough to enjoy it. We're getting just a little bit hungry and it's 12 miles to the Lone Tree Tavern." He met Jo's eyes humorously. "All those things, or any one of them, are more important right now than Fragonet. Don't you agree?"

"Yes, I do," Jo laughed. It was fun to be with Marsh again, and she was reminded of their evening together at the Olympic Bowl, and of their first few days at Crest Lake when Marsh was conscientiously showing her the place.

"Another thing that's important right now," Marsh went on lightly, "is that you're so darned beautiful and so close to me that I want to kiss you. Does that strike you as important?"

"Well," Jo said, "you make it sound rather important."

"Important enough to act upon?" he asked.

Jo was puzzled. If Marsh wanted to kiss her for the simple light-hearted reasons he had given, then Jo saw no reason to be a prude. But if his lightness was only the mask behind which he wanted to proceed toward a relationship which would be cheap and common and insincere, then—"Important enough to act upon?" Marsh repeated.

"Possibly," said Jo.

"Then if you leave it to my judgment entirely—," He did not finish. He brought the car to a lurching stop, took Jo Darien by his arm and kissed her so firmly and definitely that she gasped for breath. (To Be Continued)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 4.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Josiah is the type of religious reformer as he is the type of good king. He was only 8 years old when he came to the throne of Judah, and, therefore, he must have depended to some extent upon good advisers. But even a youthful king is likely to turn sooner or later against the good counsel of his advisers, unless there be a good spirit in himself.

Josiah's course as a reformer is all the more remarkable because his father had not set him any example of goodness. Fortunately, the young king had a good mother.

Conditions had become very bad in the kingdom. Idolatry, which meant association with evil and corrupt practices, had become rampant, and there was little regard for a religion of holiness and purity.

Josiah began his reforms very sensibly. He did not seek to effect a change simply by passing laws or by exercising his own arbitrary authority.

He called the leaders of Judah together, priests, prophets, and people, "both small and great," and here in their company he read to them the words of the Book of the Covenant—that is, a portion of the Bible, our Book of Deuteronomy, that had been discovered after years of neglect in the temple.

It must have been an impressive scene as the king, now a young man of 26, stood by the pillar reading the Book and making a covenant with Jehovah to keep his commandments, testimonies, and statutes, and with all heart and soul to live according to the words of the covenant written in the Book.

The covenant, also, was not something imposed upon the people; it was first of all, something the king took to himself, and all the people stood in recognition of their assent.

Every great reform has two aspects. It seeks to build the new upon better foundations, and at the same time it sweeps away the old and corrupt things that have brought disaster and trouble. So one of the first evidences of this reform was destruction of the vessels and symbols of idolatrous worship and suppression of the idolatrous priests.

It was a new day in Judah. The great religious experiences of the past were restored to their true meaning.

The permanent lessons of such a story are not difficult to emphasize. All great reform begins in true character and purpose, and in the acceptance, explicitly or implicitly, of a covenant to do right.

A true ruler will covenant with God and his people, and the people in turn will covenant to observe faithfully the laws and principles that make for maintenance of order and welfare in society. No real reform can be built upon the false and decaying things that have brought destruction upon society.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD BIG RALLY AT AMBOY AUG. 22

Plans Will be Perfected at Meeting There at 6:30 This Eve

Republicans from all parts of Lee county will gather in Amboy this evening to complete plans for the G. O. P. rally on August 22 at the Lee county fair grounds, to which voters from throughout the Thirtieth district will be invited to spend the day. Mrs. George Simmons of Marshall, Mo., the farm woman whose address was so enthusiastically received at the recent Republican convention at Springfield, has been secured to deliver one of the main addresses on the program, the committee has announced.

Chairman H. C. Warner of the Lee county Republican central committee will preside at the meeting this evening. A brief business program will follow a banquet which will be served by the ladies of the Eastern Star of Amboy at the Masonic hall. Final arrangements will be made for the district gathering to be held at Amboy, Aug. 22.

The Aug. 22 gathering is being planned as one of a series of late summer meetings of the Republican party. Because it includes the six counties of Lee, Whiteside, Ogle, Carroll, Jo Daviess and Stephenson, in its scope, the convocation is sure to attract a record breaking crowd. Although plans are still tentative it is probable that a picnic dinner at noon will open the festivities. A sports program including a ball game may also be held. The speaking program with many prominent party leaders appearing on the platform will be the feature of the day.

STARVED ROCK RALLY

Ottawa, August 1 (Special)—Republicans of at least thirty counties, representative of six down state congressional districts aside from the Cook county areas, will gather at Starved Rock Park on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, August 8th for the G. O. P. get-together, being sponsored by the LaSalle County G. O. P. Central Committee. J. E. Hill, chairman, announced today.

It is estimated that twenty thousand people will attend the event. Planned originally as an inter-county meeting, the spirit of the occasion—reflective in every manner of the recent "grass roots" conference at Springfield has rolled out over the lush corn lands, the ripening wheat fields and record-breaking oats harvest to encompass practically every section of north-central Illinois.

Iowa Represented

Even Iowa is going to be well represented at the gathering, as the speaker of the day, Senator L. J. Dickinson is that state's favorite son presidential possibility. Several delegations are coming over from beyond the Mississippi to "whoop it up" for the Senator whose vigorous opposition to many phases of the Democratic New Deal has placed him in the front ranks of the New Era Republicans.

The meeting has as its primary purpose, Chairman Hill stated, "the re-dedication of our belief in the principles of the Republican Party as laid down at Ottawa, County seat of LaSalle county eighty-one years ago when a new party was created to oppose the Democratic Party."

The occasion, it is likewise pointed out, is not for the purpose of building up the political aspirations of party candidates for county, state—or national—office. In this respect, the gathering is to follow out the tenets of the Springfield "grass roots" conference.

The afternoon session of the gathering will be devoted to speed boat races on the Illinois river and athletic contests, with suitable prizes, for young and old. In the evening there will be free dancing and lavish fire works.

Is Natural Theater

Senator Dickinson will speak at 8 o'clock. The natural amphitheater of Starved Rock park will be equipped with a public-address system.

Those attending are requested to make it a "picnic basket" affair with the hour of from six to seven of the evening set aside for the disposition of refreshments.

Chairman Hill announced that delegations are coming from the 11th Congressional—the counties of McHenry, Kane, DuPage and Will.

12th—Winnebago, Boone, DeKalb, Kendall, Grundy, LaSalle; 13th—Jo Daviess, Stephenson, Carroll, Ogle, Whiteside, Lee; 14th—Bureau, Putnam, Marshall, Peoria, Tazewell;

15th—Livingston, Woodford, Ford, McLean, Logan;

16th—Kankakee, Iroquois, Vermillion.

The ten districts of Cook county will also send large delegations, the chairman stated.

SEEKS INJUNCTION

Chicago — Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, one time collector of internal revenue, filed suit for an injunction to prevent Sheriff John Toman from returning her to jail for non payment of a $7500 judgment when her federal writ of supersedeas expires tomorrow.

Youths Who Stole Car Here Face Elgin Trial

Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 1—(AP)—Two youths, one admittedly a paroled Illinois convict, are being held in the county jail here for Elgin, Ill., authorities who said they want the youths for an armed robbery.

Sheriff James E. Irvine said Federal Dyer Act charges might be pressed against Roy Buerkman, Shaffer, the paroled convict, returned to Joliet prison if the Elgin case "develops."

The youths were arrested Monday after attempting to use their revolvers when officers crowded their car, stolen in Dixon, Ill., to the curb.

That's real news for everyone that drives a car! Now you can get guaranteed Goodrich Safety Silver-towns with the exclusive Life-Saver Golden Ply, proved three times safer from high-speed blowouts; or a powerful new battery on your own convenient easy terms. Why worry along on worn-out or inferior quality tires or pinch yourself by paying cash? Equip your car now on our friendly, courteous plan. It fits the needs of everyone!

NO DELAYS OR EMBARRASSMENT
When you buy on our plan there are no long investigations, no waiting and all transactions are confidential. All you have to do is show us your license identification.

NO RED TAPE ABOUT CREDIT
Our liberal plan fits every pocketbook. You make your own long or short terms to suit your income. There are no finance companies to bother with and it's as easy as buying for cash.

QUICK SERVICE TO EVERYONE
We mean what we say. Just select what you need and tell us how you can pay. It only takes a couple minutes to open your account. Be sure to investigate our easy plan before you buy.
